Mullican Expands Imported Products with Castilian Collection

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. – Mullican Flooring’s Castilian Collection, introduced at 2010 trade shows, represents the company’s most recent offering of prefinished, engineered imported products.

Created for the high-end designer market, Castilian is domestic timber that is manufactured in Indonesia and available in six- and seven-inch widths. Produced with an added three-millimeter top layer, the products are particularly suitable for condominiums and large commercial and public projects that require enhanced durability and distinctive style elements.

With this collection, the Johnson City, Tenn.-based company is also introducing whitewashed and sculpted-smoked surface treatments for the first time in its history.

“We are branching out with some exciting new designer products as part of Mullican’s 25th anniversary celebration this year,” says Brian Greenwell, Mullican’s vice president of sales and marketing. “We’re confident that commercial builders and designers seeking a distinct, customized look will find this flooring particularly appealing.”

Castilian is available in oak, hickory and walnut in 12 products that include whitewashed, brushed, sculpted, sculpted-smoked and rustic floors. Selections include Oak Sandstone, Oak Espresso, Oak Driftwood, Oak Natural, Oak Glacier, Oak Midnight, Hickory Suede, Hickory Mink, Walnut Colonial, Oak Latte, Oak Coffee Bean and Oak Wine Barrel.
